Past QCDS President Dr. Bijan Anvar receiving the Emil Lentchner Distinguished Service from Dr. Jay Ledner as Dr. Anvar's wife looked on.

The Emil Lentchner Distinguished Service Award is the highest honor given by the Queens County Dental Society. There have been years when there are no candidates to receive this recognition. This year, the QCDS Board of Trustees unanimously approved the Honors Committee recommendation that Dr. Bijan Anvar be the recipient.

Dr. Anvar graduated from the NYU College of Dentistry with honors in oral surgery. There he co-founded the Persian Dental Association. He has served organized dentistry in many different capacities, from president of ICDE to president of QCDS. Dr. Anvar has served as a NYSDA delegate for many years. He also was state chair of NYSDA's Council on Dental Practice.

Clinical Case Example Below

Tooth #15 is set to be extracted

The surgical site was initially debrided to induce bleeding and establish the Regional Acceleratory Phenomenon

Insert Large or Slim sized OsteoGen® Bone Grafting Plugs and allow blood to absorb

Two Slim OsteoGen® Plugs are in place. Suture over top of socket to contain. No membrane is required

OsteoGen® is a low density bone graft and the OsteoGen® Plugs will show radiolucent on the day of placement

As the OsteoGen® crystals are resorbed and replaced by host bone, the site will become radiopaque.

The collagen promotes keratinized soft tissue coverage while the graft resorbs to form solid bone. In this image, a core sample was retrieved

Implant is placed. Note the histology showing mature osteocytes in lamellar bone formation. Some of the larger OsteoGen® crystals and clusters are slowly resorbing. Bioactivity is demonstrated by the high bone to crystal contact, absent of any fibrous tissue encapsulation

A Great Job, and with a 401K, Too!

By Dr. Craig L. Tischler, D.D.S.

February was National Children's Dental Health Month. February 2019 was the 63rd year that the ADA sponsors this month-long national health observance. The statistics are very disturbing about how many dentally underserved children there are in this country, and in our state and city. Issues such as Dental IQ, proximity to a dentist, and cost of care all play a role in this access to care problem. Rest assured, this problem is actively being worked on at a national level by our American Dental Association and on a state level by our NYS Dental Association. These are the organizations we as dentists want to have working and trying to solve this dental care issue.

I attended a very informative, eye opening NYSDA meeting in Albany last spring. The problems of access to dental care for children (and adults) in New York was being presented. It was hard for this Queens dentist to fathom the magnitude of the dental access issues when you can't even walk one block in Queens without seeing ten different dental offices of all different sizes and specialties. The people living and working in Queens are very fortunate to have so much access of care available to them. We can't be short sighted and confused into believing we don't have dentally underserved children and adults right here in our own backyard. Unfortunately, we do! It is very real and serious.

QCDS, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Month, does our part. It's an exciting month at the Society. The Children's Dental Health committee, headed by Dr. Arelys Santana, provides free dental screenings and oral hygiene supplies utilizing the mobile Colgate Dental Health Van at local Queens elementary schools.

None of this would be possible if it weren't for our sponsors and hardworking members. Any interest in participating on next year's Children's Dental Health Committee? Reach out today so next year you can be an active part of the team!

The people living and working in Queens are very fortunate to have so much access of care available to them.

Although I believe every month and every day, for that matter, Children's Dental Health is important, I, like so many of you, enjoy the excuse in February to take out my big tooth smiling puppets and extra-large toothbrush. I get myself out of my office and into the schools to spread the word about the proper way to brush your teeth, the importance of visiting your dentist twice a year, how to properly take care of your smile, and most importantly, that the tooth fairy is very real.

I was doing my usual rounds spreading “the Dental Word,” giving out new toothbrushes to all the children in a local Queens elementary school when, at the end of my presentation, I asked if there were any questions. I am sure you would agree, a pretty basic and routine question to ask at the end of any program. Just when I thought I had heard it all, a fourth grader raised his hand and asked me how long I have been a dentist, asked if I liked being a dentist and then asked me if my job comes with a 401K! Out of the mouths of babes! I was glad to realize my presentation had resonated with this student.

Dentists Are Playing Poker for Pediatric Cancer Foundation

A group of dentists from Queens get together and play a friendly game of poker. It happens all over, all the time, but these dentists are different. Organized and hosted by Dr. Doron Kalman at Leading Edge Oral Surgery, this group of dentists has been playing together for more than four years and the winner is always the same.

These gentlemen give their winnings to the Pediatric Cancer Foundation. So far, they have donated more than $7,500. "It's a fun night every time we get together and we know that the money is going to a good cause," said Dr. Bijan Anvar.

Dr. Kalman, an oral surgeon with practices in Queens and Manhattan and a past president of the Queens County Dental Society, has organized and hosted this event. "I am honored to support the Pediatric Cancer Foundation, and I am grateful for all my friends who support this event," he said.

"We call ourselves the LEPPG, for Leading Edge Poker Group," says Dr. Mitchell Greenberg.

New Regulations Facing the Dental Practice

By Oleg Rabinovich

FMLA Starts Immediately, Whether the Employee Wants It or Not

Employers have been grappling with the intricacies of the Family and Medical Leave Act for over 25 years. As employers know, the FMLA provides for up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave in a 12 month period for certain qualifying family, medical or military reasons. Employers (or employees) can choose to substitute some of those unpaid weeks as paid leave by using available sick, vacation or other benefit time. For example, if an employee has four weeks of accrued but unused vacation time, either the employer or employee may direct that four weeks of the 12 weeks of FMLA leave will be paid by drawing against that accrued time.

However, what happens when an employee notifies the employer of the need for a leave which the employer knows would qualify for FMLA, but directs the employer not to charge it against FMLA, preferring instead to use benefit time first? Does the employee have leave to delay FMLA leave?

The U.S. Department of Labor has now emphatically answered this question: "No!" In an opinion letter on March 14, of this year, DOL stated that when an employer has been presented with facts indicating that a leave is FMLA-qualifying (for example, for the employee's own serious health condition), the employer must designate the leave as FMLA leave and start the 12-week clock. Whether the employer will require the employee to use paid time during that period (most employers do), or allow the employee to tack on that paid leave at the end of FMLA leave (if the employee wants it that way), is a separate matter. The three-page opinion letter can be found at: https://www.dol.gov/whd/opinion/FMLA/2019/2019\_03\_14\_1A\_FMLA.pdf

Remember that it is the employer's responsibility to recognize that a leave may be FMLA-qualifying. The employee need not mention the FMLA or even be aware of its existence, but the employer must recognize the leave request for what it is.

The bottom line is that employers may not permit, and employees may not request, that FMLA leave be delayed for any reason.

Important Overtime Developments, and Why New York State Employers May Not Care

The United States Department of Labor ("DOL") has announced new proposed rules regarding overtime exemptions. While this will be important in many states, the new rules will have little to no effect in the State of New York.

First, some basic background. Under both the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act and the New York State Labor Law, all employees are required to be paid time and one-half their regular rate of pay if they work more than 40 hours in a week, unless they fall into an exempt classification. To be exempt, the employee must meet three tests:

- Be salaried ("The Salary Basis Test"), which means the amount of weekly compensation is not reduced based on the number of hours worked that week, with some exceptions (contrary to popular belief, being salaried in and-of-itself does not make an employee exempt; the other tests must be met as well);
- Earn the "minimum salary" required to be exempt; and
- Meet the "Duties Test," which requires the employee to work in an exempt classification. The main exempt employee classifications are executive (high-ranking decision makers), administrative (involved in the operation of the business, such as HR, accounting, etc.) and professional (requiring a course of prolonged study usually requiring a degree).

Under current Federal law, the Minimum Salary Test only requires exempt employees to earn at least $455 per week, the equivalent of $23,660 per year. Three years ago, the DOL under President Obama proposed increasing the minimum salary to $913 per week, or around $47,000 per year. This proposed rule was challenged and enjoined in the courts and was allowed to die by the DOL under President Trump. Now the DOL has proposed a new increase in the minimum salary to $679 per week, the equivalent of $35,308 per year.

For most employers in the State of New York, however, this is much ado about nothing. New York has imposed a higher minimum salary for most exempt employees for years, and the proposed Federal salary level will still be less than New York requires. Under New York law, the minimum exempt weekly salary is 75 times the minimum wage. Since New York State has adopted different minimum wages for different geographic areas, here are the minimum exempt salaries for 2019:

	MINIMUM WAGE	MINIMUM EXEMPT WEEKLY SALARY
NEW YORK CITY –11 OR MORE EMPLOYEES	$15.00	$1,125.00
NEW YORK CITY –10 OR FEWER EMPLOYEES	$13.50	$1,012.50
LONG ISLAND AND WESTCHESTER	$12.00	$ 900.00
ALL OTHER AREAS	$11.10	$ 832.50

Executive and administrative employees earning less than the minimum weekly salaries above are not exempt, no matter their duties. Oddly, New York does not have a minimum salary for professional employees, so the increase in the Federal minimum will affect those employees, although most professionals probably earn more than those minimums already.

New Regulations Facing the Dental Practice

In states which do not have higher minimum exempt salaries, the proposed rule will matter. For example, Connecticut's minimum exempt salary requirement is $475 per week, higher than the current Federal minimum but less than the proposed Federal minimum. New Jersey has no minimum salary of its own, and follows the Federal rule. Please check the laws in the state where you do business to be sure you are in compliance.

Finally, this proposed rule will be subject to public comment and review by the DOL. Once the rule is finalized several months from now, it is likely to be challenged in the courts again. Whether the 2020 elections will have an effect on the proposal also remains to be seen.

CE Calendar

2018 is going to be an amazing year for our CE programs. We plan on offering more CE programs than ever before. We have over 50 events scheduled on the 2019 calendar. As a member, many of them are free or heavily discounted, so please take advantage of that. In fact, if a member attends all of the free CE courses, they will be fully covered for the 60 CE credit requirement. Be sure to check out our website, qcds.org to see all of them.

Membership Renewal

I know that most of you have already renewed your membership, but if you have not already done so, please renew at your earliest convenience. We truly value you as members and hope you realize how valued you are. The lobbying and advocacy efforts of the tri-partite (ADA, NYSDA, QCDS) may not always get your attention, but without their work to protect patient and dentist interests, the profession would be in a much worse position today. The tri-partite leadership is constantly reviewing and analyzing issues on access to care, Medicaid reimbursement matters and many other important concerns facing your profession. They do this so that your interests, and more importantly the interests of your patients, are made known to regulators and legislators. Without a large unified voice that speaks for most dentists, the interests of our patients and our members would be ignored. Strength in numbers is key to making sure that our voices are being heard. I beseech you to keep your membership and to explain to your non-tripartite colleagues why it is so important for them to join with us.

If you are having temporary financial issues, do not let this be a reason to drop your membership. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me to discuss options that will allow you to keep your membership in the tri-partite.

versity in Leadership. He was co-creator of the very successful QCDS World’s Fair of Dentistry as well as creator of the annual QCDS oral cancer screening at Citifield. Dr. Anvar lectures extensively on HIPAA, Oral Cancer, ePrescribing, Data, and Cyber Security.

He is an attending at Flushing Hospital Medical Center and is also an ADA Success Speaker. Dr. Anvar is co-founder of VeteransSmileDay.org, an organization that provides free dental treatment to veterans across the country and as of this year has over 1,000 offices across the country providing care. Dr. Anvar also sits on the board of New York States Dental Foundation.

His sacrifices for the dental society are many and he is always willing to help his colleagues. He is very thankful for his friends and colleagues and is humbled by the camaraderie that the dental society provides. He is most grateful for his parents, Dr. Hooshang Anvar and Maria Longinotti, his son, Bijan, his daughter Isabella, and especially for his wife, Dr. Jennifer Laino-Anvar, who he met in dental school. He says his greatest joy is spending time with them and watching his son play baseball and his daughter play softball.

At the QCDS installation, Dr. Anvar accepted his award from presenter Dr. Jay Ledner, QCDS past president. Dr. Anvar thanked the members for his nomination and also thanked his family for their love and support.

Dr. Anvar concluded his remarks by stating “We are all better because we choose to help one another. That is the beauty of organized dentistry. I am both honored and humbled to have been selected as the recipient of the Emil Lentchner Distinguished Service Award. Service is the thing we should all do, and I am grateful to be able to serve.” Dr. Anvar was given a standing ovation.

3 Ways to Get the Most from the ADA's Find-a-Dentist Campaign

The ADA launched a digital consumer advertising campaign to get more patients in members' chairs. This campaign is designed to address the "busyness" gap identified by the ADA Health Policy Institute (HPI). As part of their research, HPI found that ADA member dentists have the capacity to see more patients. It also identified 19.6 million potential patients who believe in the importance of dental visits but for various reasons are not following through to make an appointment.

To capitalize on this opportunity, paid search and digital ads targeting these potential patients will direct them to the new ADA Find-a-Dentist® tool to book an appointment.

The new Find-a-Dentist tool provides consumers with a user-friendly experience and additional search fields to easily find an ADA dentist. Prospective patients will be able to search by payment options, benefits accepted, dental specialty and zip code. They can then contact the practice via phone or email to make an appointment.

The ADA is encouraging members to make the most of this opportunity. Here are some ways you can benefit from this initiative.

1. Update Your Profile at ADA.org/MyADA

Completed profiles appear at the top of the search results in the new Find-a-Dentist tool, so get yours ready to go. Updating your profile is easy and only takes 5 minutes. Start by visiting ADA.org/MyADA and login using your user ID (ADA member number) and password.

My ADA member profiles have been updated with new fields of information based on feedback from patients on what they look for when they search for a dentist. You'll be able to add multiple business addresses and business hours, practice focus, types of patients you treat and which forms of payment and benefit plans you accept. Making it easy for potential patients to get the information they're looking for benefits both the patient and the dentist.

Be sure to include a practice description, website and email so your future patients can learn more about you and easily connect.

2. Add a Recent Profile Photo

If you don't have a photo, add one today! Profiles with photos get 11 times more clicks than those without, and they show up higher in search results.

If you do have a photo, make sure it's current and a close-up. (Think about a passport photo: Include your head and shoulders — but unlike a passport photo, you can smile!) Your My ADA profile has a cropping tool, but zooming in too much on a photo taken from far away can affect the quality of the image.

7:00 P.M. – How to Minimize Complication and Confront Bone Augmentation Challenges with Simple, Minimally Invasive and Predictable Grafting Protocols

While the essential requirement is to provides patients the ultimate functional and aesthetic oral rehabilitation outcome, augmentation and grafting procedures become an indispensable part of modern dentistry and implantology. Grafting procedures include simple socket grafting cases to preserve the height and width of the bone for future implant placement, or more complex and challenging procedures such as bone reconstruction in a large 3D bony defect, lateral augmentation, vertical augmentation, sinus lifts, periodontal defects, etc.

For the last few decades, many more of the same techniques and grafting material have been proposed, modified, enhanced in armamentarium and increased in application time. However, not one of those techniques and materials provides patients an easy or simple, less invasive cost-effective solution. Those old procedures are cumbersome, time-consuming, surgically are very invasive due to the soft tissue manipulation needed for tension-free primary closure and necessitates membranes and additives.

After all this tremendous effort, the result is mostly integration of graft particles within a matrix of trabeculations rather than regeneration of the patient’s own bone. Due to the nature of the graft (allograft or xenograft), the healing time is prolonged and extensive.

The purpose of this presentation is to shed light on biphasic calcium sulfate (BCS) bone graft cement. A disruptive, innovative paradigm shift concept that can provide the clinician with the ability to confront even the most challenging augmentation cases very easily with minimally invasive surgical protocols. Accelerate and simplify treatment flow and patient healing, regenerate patient’s own bone, enhance healing, minimize patient’s discomfort and bring complication percentage to almost zero.

The lecture will focus on how we can predict the outcome during the surgery, application of the BCS and suturing technique, how to minimally manipulate the surgical flap, keep it under tension, but minimally invasive (not tension free) as to eliminate the muscle influence. Removing the muscle pull out of the equation results in almost no complication, less discomfort to the patient, and higher surgical predictability.
